extraordinarily exemplary relationship between nature and humankind, between cultural heritage and landscape heritage. Its 4,580 hectares include the Via Appia Antica and its envoirs for more than 16 kilometres, from Piazza Numa Pompilio to Frattocchie, the entire length of the valley of the Castellarea where the Almone River runs through it; the archaeological area of Vía Latina, the green area of ‘Terren del Fiscase and from there the Acquedotto del Mandrione to Porta Maggiore, the archaeological area of the Aqueducts, the estates of Tornarancia and the Farnesiana to the south, and the areas of Divino Amore and Falcognana. The municipalities crossed by the park area are Rome, Campitello and Marino.

Those generated by the always values that are even more general, archaeological memories. The Park's remnants of natural scrub and parts have been joined into a single citizens and environmentalists, the point of view. Thanks from the historical-archaeological this in the world both species. There are few numerous animal biological corridor for Colli Albani slopes close proximity to the centre and its very greenery, the park A veritable wedge of 1988 AND HAS BEEN THE REGIONAL PARK NATURAL AREAS OF THE ANCIENT OF PROTECTED.
